Lead with Civility

Civility's not about being nice,
Nor silence bought at any price.
It aims for justice, well-being too,
Civil discourse carries us through.

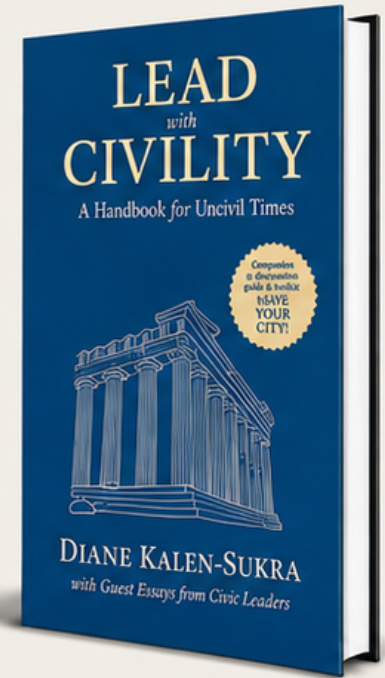

To lead with integrity, firm yet kind,
With open ears and open mind.
To serve the people as we should,
And advance the common good.

Let dignity be our trusted guide,
With wisdom walking by our side.
Not ruthless force, nor cunning guile—
It's steadfast truth that wins the trial.

We speak with courage, not with hate,
We communicate and collaborate.
For might alone will never last,
But civility shapes a future vast.

So when the world demands we fight,
We choose the path that leads to light.
Through civility, we break the chains,
For we are one, and love reigns.
